The Auckland Chamber of Commerce on Aug. 8 passed a resolution in favor of maintaining the San Francisco mail service. An argument of one of the speakers was that "large quantities of oats and potatoes were shipped to Honolulu, which was also opening up a fresh market."

Prince Kuniuakea was roughly handled about midnight of Thursday near the boat landing in some kind of a row. Dr. Miner, who attended him about one o'clock in the morning, found him pretty badly battered. The patient said it was by Vandalia men, but was too confused to give a clear account.

Capt. Hayward remained at Sydney to look after the interests of the Oceanic Steamship Company in the labor trouble. The only way the company secured a supply of coal was by buying a vessel along with its cargo of that article. Capt. Hart, first officer, commands the Mariposa on this voyage.

In recognition of the conduct of Captain Hayward of the mail steamer Mariposa in going to the rescue of the shipwrecked crew of the Henry James, which was wrecked at the island of Palmyra, and landing them comfortably in Honolulu, the British Board of Trade have awarded him a medal.

The Rifles Hop.

There was a very large and brilliant assembly at the Honolulu Rifles Battalion annual hop on Friday evening. Invited guests comprised many officers of the warships in port, officers of the Second Battalion of Volunteers, foreigners from the steamer Mariposa's passengers, and prominent residents, with a gay and numerous accompaniment of the fair sex. Dancing was kept up with spirit throughout the programme, the string contingent of the Royal Band led by Prof. Berger furnishing the music. About eleven o'clock refreshments, including the best coffee the world can produce—viz., Hawaiian—were dispensed by Mr. Steiner of the Elite Parlors, the naval guests, ladies, and visitors from abroad being served at tables in the rooms of the different companies. The Portuguese company—C—“took the cake” for decoration of their room, but the whole Armory interior was splendid with flags, tropical flora and illumination.

The Street-Making Tenders.

MR. EDITOR: In your issue of this morning you notice the tenders for grading Halekaiula and Alakea streets and also the complaint that the bid accepted was not received at the Interior office till an hour or more after the time advertised.

It is only fair to state that for that delay neither Mr. Gribble nor the Minister of the Interior is responsible. Mr. Gribble's tender was in my hands Tuesday evening, and expecting to be at the Interior office at the opening of the bids I did not think it worth while to hand it in before that time. But being thoroughly occupied with some other work when 12 o'clock came on Wednesday, the appointment escaped my mind entirely, and I rode home to lunch as is my habit, carrying the document in my pocket.

It is also no more than right to say that even if Mr. Gribble had not made any tender, Mr. Harrison's tender would not have been accepted, it being far in excess of the estimate made by Mr. Lawrence for the Department of Public Works.

Samoa Affairs.

Our reporter renewed a casual acquaintance with Mr. H. M. Sewall, United States Consul-General to Samoa, at the Hotel on Friday evening. He stated, in reply to enquiry, that affairs were unchanged in Samoa since the accession of Tamasese. A German gunboat was still there, as was the U. S. S. Adams.

Germany had not advanced the degree of her control, further than to effect a treaty with the existing Government. Neither America nor England had recognized Tamasese, except that the latter country acknowledged the "de facto government," whatever that might mean. The American and British Consuls still retained control in matters immediately affecting citizens of their respective countries, although the revolution had caused the dissolution of the consular municipality.

Mr. Sewall denied the truth of a statement cited to him from a Sydney paper just received, to the effect that the natives were gradually recognizing Tamasese as King. The British Consul and himself had used all their influence in keeping the natives quiet, the principal duty devolving upon himself being, however, to look after the interests of American residents.

Mr. Sewall gave no support to a current impression that there existed an understanding between America, Great Britain and Germany conceding to the latter the exercise of whatever she wished in respect to Samoa. The Consul-General has a furlough of two months, but does not apprehend a serious change in the situation before the lapse of that period. He is looking very well.

The Clark Combination.

Mr. J. F. Fields, business manager and a performer in the Clark Combination, that played in Honolulu a season en route south, paid a visit to this office last night. Mr. Clark is a fellow-passenger homeward bound with him, and the intention was for the troupe to play here this time. Several members, however, were up country and failed to connect with the steamer at Sydney. Mr. Fields reports a very prosperous tour, winding up with Sydney a few days before the Mariposa sailed. He looked well—particularly as rigged up from attending the ball—and was sorry at missing another season here.

House Notes.

The Attorney-General occupied two Ministerial chairs during Rep. Kauli's discussion of the "something to eat" paragraph in the election bill. His Excellency's attitude was decidedly unparliamentary. See Cooley's Constitutional Limitations.
